"I'm Growing Old."

harmen to know by a lady of New York city. However it may be with the frail, physical frame, we are sure the heart that guides out in these words can never "grow old."

I'm grawing old! The surely so! And yet, how short it seems Since I was but a sportive child, Enjoying childish dreams!

I can not see the change that comes With such an even pace; I much not when the wrinkles full Upon my fading face.

I know, I'm old. And yet, my heart Is just as young, and gav.

As eler it was, before my locks

Of beight brown turned to gray.

I know these eyes to other eyes Look not so bright and glad.

As once they looked—and yet 'tis not

I nover watched with purer loy.
The deating clouds and glowing skies,
While glost line tears of rapture full.
These old and feding eyes.

And when I mark the cheek, where once It grieves me not to see instead. The almond crown my brow.

Fire seen the flower grow old, and pale, And withered, more than I: Five seen it lose its every charm, Then droop away and die.

And then I've seen it rise again. Bright as the beaming sky, And young and pure, soft beautiful— And felt, that so shall I.

Then what if am growing old? Mr heart is changeless still, And G of has given me enough This loving heart to fill.

I love to see the sun go down, And lengthening shadows throw Along the cloud, while over my head

I see be out those moreous clouds, A equatry bright and fair.

Which needs in sun-God and the Lamb
Its light and beauty are.

I seem to hear the wondrous song Redeemed sinners sing. And my heart leaps to join the throng That praise the heavenly King.

I seem to see three chernly boys,

With golden curis and snowy wings, Whose eyes with rapture glow. When I was young, I called them mine-

Now, Heaven's sweet ones are they; But I shall claim my own again When I am called away.

Perhaps, when Heaven's bright gate I've past, They'll know, from every other, he one who gave them back to God, And haste to call me, mother !

Oh, I am glad I'm growing old! For every day I spend Shall bring me one day nearer that Bright day that both no end!

Relics of Antiquity.

We have before us a number of coins, trought to this country by Rev. W. F. Williams, missionary of the American Board at Mosul. These with other valuagold coin, bearing the name and face of Asinoe Philadelphou, the sister and wife founded the colchrated Alexandrian Libra-ry. It dates leads to short to short to seall the roll of his slaves on Bun-first Monday of June Next, (1st day ry. It dates back to about two hundred and eighty years before Christ. It is about the size of a sovereign, is a beautiful coin, and seems as bright and fresh as if it had but just left the mint. The others are silver staters, (the coin which Peter took from the fish,) and are of the coinage of Alexander the Great, and of the Syrian kings Antiochus Epiphanes who attempted to overthrow Judaism and scattered swine's flesh about the temple, but as a reward for his subserviency Autiochus Eupator, Antiochus Euergetes, in performing an arbitrary act which Demotrius Soter, etc., the latest being a free-born law-abilding son of Pennabout 160 years before Christ.
